

#6645

David Shack davidshack@comcast.net

Why do we treat our domestic animals more humanely than we do our citizens? Everyone should have the right to life, liberty the pursuit of happiness and the rational choice of life or death. I would prefer this last choice be with the help of a professional. Most elderly I know are more fearful of a long and painful death rather than death itself. They want to go peacefully in their sleep. This law can make this wish more possible. I am for individual rights when it comes to choice of death. Individual rights trump the government in this instance.

Sent from my iPhone